

Natural Resources

Our country values its natural resources and recognizes the balance required for sustainable development. Whether our clients are interested in oil, natural gas, timber, precious metals, hard rock, fisheries, water, land, climate or other natural resources, Stoel Rives' attorneys can assist on natural resources transactions, permitting, community relations and implementation of responsible exploration and development strategies. Stoel Rives' attorneys know the applicable laws governing development rights and conservation, and we work constructively with key regulators, public officials and other stakeholders to anticipate challenges, identify common ground, and design practical solutions to achieve success for each client operating in a natural resources industry.
